

MAKE ME WANNA HOLLER!

EXPLORING DC'S MUSIC LEGACY SATURDAY 4.20.2019

This event is produced in conjunction with the Charles Sumner School Museum and Archives' National Poetry Month Open House, Chocolate City Rocks, the Anacostia Community Museum's "A Right to the City" exhibition, the National Postal Museum's celebration of the US Postal Service's new Marvin Gaye stamp, DC: The Social Power of Music presented by the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, and the Smithsonian Year of Music.

This free, fun event, presented at two historic DC buildings, features the social power of local music and poetry. In April 2019, the US Postal Service releases its new stamp honoring Marvin Gaye, DC native son and international music legend. In celebration, join us for a day of activities, discussion, and performances that explore DC's rich music history—its legacies and contemporary resonances. This program is funded in part by the D.C. Commission on the Arts & Humanities, an agency supported in part by the National Endowment for the Arts.

CHARLES SUMNER SCHOOL MUSEUM AND ARCHIVES

10:00 am to 3:00 pm

1201 Seventeenth Street NW (near M)

sumnermuseumdc.org

Metered street parking available on adjacent streets
Closest Metro: Farragut North, McPherson Square

NATIONAL POSTAL MUSEUM

3:30 to 5:30 pm

2 Massachusetts Avenue NE

Postalmuseum.si.edu

Metered street parking available on adjacent streets
Closest Metro: Union Station