In January of 1961 I recorded the album Eddie Con Los Shades under the name "Eddie Medina." I used that name because at that time I was still with Falcon under my real name, Baldemar Huerta. I chose Eddie Medina because my father's mother's last name was Medina. And Eddie, I just liked the name. The group was called "The Shades" because whoever played with me, I just put sunglasses on them. We all wore shades.

I wrote Mean Woman in English first. I wrote it again in Spanish and called it Que Mala. It was the flip side of Holy One, and it helped sell 280,000 records. It became #1. It was kind of weird because Holy One became #1 in San Antonio and Mean Woman became #1 in Ft. Worth and Dallas with KLIF.

Acapulco Rock, that was a big hit in Mexico, it was in the movies and everything. I wrote that one.

About the other songs in this collection, I was probably the engineer on these sessions. I would put the switch on and then run like hell to pick up the guitar with the boys waiting for me.

– Freddie Fender from a 1992 interview with Davia Nelson.
