The mechanical street music revival, based on a pre-WW I tradition of organ-grinders, started in France in the mid-seventies, when a few devotees strived to build new pipe or reed organs and to punch folding cards to go with it.

The instrument heard on this record is a small mechanical organ built by ROBERT HOPP. It is equipped with a range of twenty-four wood pipes which reproduce music that has been specially arranged and recorded on folding punched cards by PIERRE CHARIAL.
