The National Museum of African American History and Culture is the only national museum devoted exclusively to the documentation of African American life, history, and culture. It was established by Act of Congress in 2003, following decades of efforts to promote and highlight the contributions of African Americans. The Museum opened to the public on September 24, 2016, as the 19th and newest museum of the Smithsonian Institution. The museum tells the American story through the lens of African American history and culture. This is America's story and the museum is for all Americans. To date, its collection encompasses more than 36,000 artifacts and nearly 100,000 individuals have become members.

This recording is part of the African American Legacy Recordings series, co-produced with the Smithsonian National Museum of African American History and Culture. It was made possible with the generous support of the Museum and its founding director, Lonnie Bunch. Through this publication and through its jointly sponsored African American Legacy series of recordings, Smithsonian Folkways joins with the Museum in helping all Americans learn about the richness and diversity of the African American experience, what it means to their lives, and how it has helped shape the nation.

Smithsonian Folkways Recordings is the nonprofit record label of the Smithsonian Institution, the national museum of the United States. Our mission is to document music, spoken word, instruction, and sounds from around the world. In this way, we continue the legacy of Moses Asch, who founded Folkways Records in 1948. The Smithsonian acquired Folkways from the Asch estate in 1987, and Smithsonian Folkways Recordings has continued the Folkways tradition by supporting the work of traditional artists and expressing a commitment to cultural diversity, education, and increased understanding among peoples through the production, documentation, preservation, and dissemination of sound.

Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, Folkways, Arhoolie, A.R.C.E., Blue Ridge Institute, Bobby Susser Songs for Children, Collector, Cook, Dyer-Bennet, Fast Folk, Folk-Legacy, Mickey Hart Collection, Monitor, M.O.R.E., Paredon, UNESCO, and Western Jubilee Recording Company recordings are all available through:
