INCIDENTAL MUSIC

Music on this record has been especially selected to function as background accompaniment for pantomime, whether on stage or on film. The variety afforded covers most short subject needs, and may be interlaced with appropriate literal sound effects from the Cook Sound Effects Vol. I & II.

Material includes percussion orchestra, harpsichord, music box, marimba, symphony orchestra, barrelhouse piano (nichlideon), burlesque orchestra, pipe organ, calliope, and jungle drums.

The recording is rendered in compatible stereo and may be reproduced on any 33⅓ RPM phonograph. The stereo aspect can be a definite dramatic advantage in the case of on-stage live theatricals.

Other appropriate accompaniment music for special situations may be found on regular catalog COOK records, as follows
Set the Stage

Here is the secret behind many of the most successful documentaries and travelogs of our time. For compiling moving pictures or slide film projection, incidental music plays an important part in setting the stage. Especially for travelogs, to be effective this music must be authentic, originally recorded on location. Although the location naturally does not have to be identical, the incidental music must be real, and of the same cultural tradition as the picture subject. Cook on-location recordings are made by experts in the field, and they carry the indisputably wide range high quality reproduction for which Cook has been known through the years. From the extensive and historic Cook catalog there is hardly an area at home or abroad that is not represented authentically.
