Introduction
These songs are simple songs and they have been sung by generations of children. I feel they are a good first step into music for little people. The simplicity of lyrics and the rhythmic quality, along with remembering long sequences and the rhyming value of the songs, enhance a child's musical expression.

Tracks 1 - 7 are purposefully instrumental to allow a listening period without words. The songs are only named so a child may identify the melody and hum or sing along if he or she desires. The fact that a child can identify the song makes it personal to him or her.

Tracks 8 - 16 offer a tune recognition game. After hearing the melody, a child will learn to identify a song like "Pop Goes the Weasel" if it is hummed, "la-la-ed," or played on the piano or c Kazoo, or even orchestrated or played in waltz tempo.

ABOUT SMITHSONIAN FOLKWAYS

Folkways Records was founded by Moses Asch and Marian Distler in 1948 to document music, spoken word, instruction, and sounds from around the world. In the ensuing decades, New York City-based Folkways became one of the largest independent record labels in the world, reaching a total of nearly 2,200 albums that were always kept in print.

The Smithsonian Institution acquired Folkways from the Asch estate in 1987 to ensure that the sounds and genius of the artists would be preserved for future generations. All Folkways recordings are now available on high-quality audio cassettes, each packed in a special box along with the original LP liner notes.

Smithsonian Folkways Recordings was formed to continue the Folkways tradition of releasing significant recordings with high-quality documentation. It produces new titles, reissues of historic recordings from Folkways and other record labels, and in collaboration with other companies also produces instructional videotapes, recordings to accompany published books, and a variety of other educational projects.

The Smithsonian Folkways, Folkways, Cook, and Paredon record labels are administered by the Smithsonian Institution's Center for Folklife Programs & Cultural Studies. They are one of the means through which the Center supports the work of traditional artists and expresses its commitment to cultural diversity, education, and increased understanding.
